Amber Beard Sprules

Vice President, Sustainability

Amber joined Six Senses Hotels Resorts Spas as vice president of sustainability in July 2013 to further enhance the group's commitment to the environment and communities in which we operate.

During over a decade of professional passion and experience in sustainability, Amber has had a fascinating career in locales around the world which began in Boston where she delivered enriched levels of environmental and social returns for Lend Lease, one of the world's largest property developers.

Relocating to Hong Kong, Amber joined China Resources, which is one of China's largest government-owned organizations, working on the city's first existing building sustainable redevelopment project that was targeting LEED Gold certification.

A move to Singapore saw her as head of sustainability with Sustainability Ltd, an investment finance-company managing niche real estate opportunities in China, Japan and Australia, where she focused on delivering heightened levels of sustainability while delivering attractive financial returns.

In preparation for her professional career, Amber graduated with high honors, dean's high honors and summa cum laude with a degree in architecture from the University of Wisconsin. She is a LEED accredited professional, an active member of the Asia Pacific Real Estate Association and board director for the Green Spa Network in the United States.

In her spare time Amber finds balance in her own life through carousing local art galleries, farmers markets and getting her reading fix of her favorite authors, Haruki Murakami and Alain de Botton. A lover of hiking, who has trekked the Himalayas, Amber prefers to spend time in the woods whenever the opportunity presents itself.
